Our Children

After talking much about what is the role of rainbow children, it is time we really sit down and talk about the role of special children in our life. Rainbow children, crystal children and the Indigo children are nothing but names that people and the higher force give to these young souls with a mission. Most of the time, these terms contain a whole lot of glamour that people do not know.

Perhaps most are right that the Indigo, crystals and rainbow children are very psychic and perhaps even special. However we must not forget what is their role. Many, if not most, have forgotten what is the role of these special children. They are not here to be someone special and later glamorized by people, they have a role to play. In this paper, I would discuss the various role that the various children have to play and also to learn.

Many people feel that they are Indigo children, even people who are beyond the age of an Indigo. With due respect to all, the age that is commonly suggested by most scholar in the fields of Esoteric science is 20 to 35 years old as at 2006. These young adults are the crowd that falls in the Indigo spectrum. Now of course, some may argue there are prototypes. The answer is yes, there are people who are prototypes not more than 40 years old. The earliest Indigo child who was a prototype was born in 1970. This service is to remove the old paradigm of the Piscean age. Once remove, then can the next generation step in. Indigo children who are psychic are given the ability so that they can discern. There are too many traps set by the various dark forces like the illuminati and the psychic ability is for the Indigo to step out of the paradigm. After all you cannot destroy something you cannot see right? So this is the reason why they are extremely sensitive. So the Indigo children may even have problem in managing earth life, as it is too condition. Therefore for parents who feel that their Indigo children are very rebellious this is the cause. They do not like the paradigm. They seek to remove it. This is their role.

After the removal of the Paradigm, the indigo set the platform for the next set of children, which are the crystal children. Now the crystal children, unlike the indigo children, are super grounded. The common age of crystal children as at 2006 are normally 7 – 19. The earliest crystal child born was in 1985. They appreciate the special connection to earth and all devic realm. This is nothing that is surprising. As we are now on earth, after the removal of the old paradigm, the crystal children will build something grounded and new with the crystal consciousness (which is the use of more alternative type of energy i.e.

solar power). So crystal children come to do this type of work. So they would be more focus on the grounded side of life. They might in fact be less spiritual than we think they would. This is because they are here to build everything from scratch. They are very link to crystal for this reason. They are grounded beings of light.

The rainbow children born beginning year 2000, who are the most advanced children, come without karma. They are divine light brought to expand the consciousness of the people. They are pure joy energy from the aurora. They help family to be connected with one another and they are the ones who will bring the coming age to a greater experience. They are innocent and they are completely different in nature than their brothers- the indigo and crystal child. They are to expand the consciousness the crystal children have created. (For more details on the rainbow children please read – rainbow revolution)

Indigo children, Crystal and rainbow children are separated. They do not evolve to become one another. This is because of the role they are meant to play. Though some argue that evolution between the two is possible, yet considering the reason and contract that they sign. The children do not evolve. This is because they have totally different function. If Indigo children evolves to crystal children, then why in the first place GOD want to create crystal children? He could just “evolve” the existing ones. Also traits and contract of the special children are in born. They cannot be ordained or given to people by any master. This is because there is a contract in this whole matter and it is not something that you can request. Your soul has to make the contract. Indigo children are extremely easy to notice. So it is clear that not all people who do this or do that is an Indigo. It is curve into them the moment they were born. So someone can request an inner plane position like healer or whatever but not Indigo child. There is a whole lot of Karmic issue that the Indigo children carry which normally people do not want to involve. These karmic issues include prosecution and scrutiny so on and so forth. So it is not an easy job!

The reason for creating separate group is simple, the three children be it Indigo, Crystal and rainbow come in a time sequence. The Indigo is here to destroy the paradigm so now most are already working adults and they can share their experiences with the crystal. Then only the crystals will start building the foundation for the rainbow children to expand the crystal paradigm. So how can someone be a 40-year-old rainbow child when the current paradigm is still under destruction? What is there for the 40 year old to expand now? So these all comes from the glamour that people put on the title that so and so is a rainbow and so and so is a crystal. Let our children have the knowledge of the role because they carry the duty to help change the world because they are meant to. All these title and name are just something, which did not put on the divine role of our children. If there is a more correct term the Indigo is the destroyer, the crystal child is the creator and the Rainbow children is the preserver. This is the trinity aspect they hold and we should respect it and understand.

I pray for all the children in the world who are big or small. Remember your roles for you are the ones that are going to lead us into the golden age. I honor your soul as how young your body maybe as it is just nothing but the illusion of the naked eye. May this be the awakening for this coming Age Amen. Build the road so that the next children, the Children of the light may step happy and proud on the path you have build for them.
