The evolution of the consciousness

Everyday, the earth is changing and shifting in its energy. It was once said that the earth is in fact a very high level planet due to the technology and the people living in it. It was the playground for the different inhabitants to experience emotions and physical embodiment. Everything went well until the inhabitants were to experience duality consciousness. Before duality can take place, there was a series of event that make the inhabitants move away from oneness.

Thus humanity fell into duality consciousness and everything had to begin from scratch. Then slowly, earth begins to move to different levels of consciousness to re-experience it. Where is earth now? Based on the obvious evidence and the mentality of consciousness that we are in, we are transiting from the color consciousness into the sacred geometrical consciousness.

In the Melchizedek symbols course, we covered that there is 12 dimensions of consciousness in which humanity is trying to achieve. These 12 levels of consciousness are what all beings in this universe wish to integrate. Even earth as a living being, wish to attain the 12 levels of consciousness.

As we speak, the world we live in is slowly turning colorful for some reason. The color scheme used was more dull in the past and there was a fewer choice of color. Even the use of color was conservative. Man did not wear pink and also women were not encouraged to wear anything, which was too attractive. As we come to the early 1990s and especially 2000, a transition took place. There was an upliftment of consciousness and people started to change their perspective on color.

We now see that people are slowly accepting color that was considered a taboo. For example, man fashion start to have colors like coral, pink, turquoise that was considered too feminine. This change in the color tones indicates a new dawn of consciousness.

Now finally the sacred geometry consciousness came back to the world that we live in. This again can be seen in our daily life. In some shopping centre, we now start to see geometrical patterns are becoming more obvious. They are showing themselves in their true sacred geometrical form. Of course as a scholar of Sacred Geometry, we know that all things are in fact the sacred geometry. However the awareness about the existence of the sacred geometry was lost for a long time.

We are beginning to become more aware of systems that require symbols and also signs like crop circle and designs. Buildings are also more complex and geometrical in nature. These are all the evidence that we are in fact shifting into the 7th dimensional consciousness that is the sacred geometry consciousness.

So what is the next level of consciousness which humanity is reaching for? It is the Unity consciousness that is the 8th dimensional consciousness. Most speculate that it will be begin in 2012. However the universal mind and Archangels of truth foresee it to be somewhat later than 2012. No matter when is the date, it is more important to know that we have to create unity in the consciousness. This will be a long and tedious journey but it will come to us eventually.

We dedicate this article to Mdm Vicky Wall founder of Aura Soma, Mila of Language of Light for bringing the color consciousness. We also thank you Drunvalo Melchizedek and Alton Kamadon for bringing the sacred geometrical consciousness. Finally also to all who have not been mention and yet play their role in bringing in the consciousness as forerunner.
