The Illusions in Color

In our daily life we get into contact with millions of colors. From the rainbow colors to the pastel to many other variations, colors merge together with us to form one unity consciousness. This is also the reason why I need to write about the illusions of color. Colors affect us in many different forms. Be it energy or even our feelings color bring us to different state of emotions.

However do you face a problem like this? You wear a black color shirt thinking its cool and fashionable when someone walks right up to you and says “ Oh black attracts negativity you know?” Or to make things worse some may even say purple is a funeral color. These are some of the illusions that people put upon the power of colors. Thus the question would be is it true that black attract negativity?

Actually just when the night comes in, we are surrounded by the ever silence of darkness and black. When we close our eyes and meditate we see black, these are all the things we forget about the color – black. Black would be termed as a negative color because it has a long history of association with evil and the preconceive idea that black is evil. This again works with our conditioning and also the concept of evil.

In fact the color black is one of the sacred color in China to represent the water element. It is the color that is representative of the water protector Xuan Wu. Which is also a gigantic Turtle if you happen to read about Chinese mythology. The priest also wears a black dressing when giving sermons and mass. So how can we consider black as negativity when the church is also using it in their dress code. We obviously cannot say that the priest is negative.

So what really happen is that we are so used to custom and belief that we are conditions. Our mum says no black except for funeral and all sorts of customs. These notions of sub-conscious programming act upon us whenever we see black. So in order for us to feel better in our lives and make the best out of every color, please now think of a color you feel is taboo.

When you have done that ask yourself why you do not like that color? Is it something that happen in the past that made you un-happy about that color? Or did some Feng Shui reader tells you that the color does not suit you? Consider all these. Remember very importantly, there are 12 rays in the universe and each ray is a color. So are you going to avoid ray 1 which is red in color if you are afraid of red? Color helps us to boost our energy field so it has a wide band of uses. When we syntheses all the colors, we get white. When we mix all the color together we get black.

The difference between the two is that one is to combine the higher expression of our character whereas the other one is to combine the lower expression. So all the lower selfs need to be acknowledged so that we can transcend all of it to the light. Thus it is important that we are aware of the various color tones in our lives. This allows us to speed up in character development and understanding ourselves. Because sometimes the color we wear can determine what we lack and the color we dislike could be a character we have.

If you feel there is a need to adjust to your conditioning, please do so! The choice is really up to you! So do not constrict yourself to any color be expressive and embrace the color you like and also respect other people's color. May the colors be with you!
